

This poem was inspired by a pair of eagles that chose to live on a tree branch on the campus of a school I taught in. They were bald eagles. When they flew, their grace was almost indescribable. They seemed to float among the clouds. They were the essence of grace.